Reminders

- What does “Flatten the Curve” mean; and how is the state defining “success” for Wisconsinites?
 - Success is simply this: We must stop the continual rise of disease transmission to keep the number COVID-19 cases requiring hospitalization BELOW the number of available hospital beds. We must do this by slowing the spread of disease thru our proactive measures such as “social distancing.” We cannot let this virus overrun our hospitals and available medical staffing like what has happened in countries like Italy, or certain areas of the United States. We must slow the spread of this disease because, as you know, there is no current vaccine or treatment for COVID-19.
- Supervision of Children at Place of Employment
 - Allowable care and supervision while the child’s parent is employed on the premises is for no more than three hours a day. While the Department of Children and Families is allowing emergency care in some instances, the business should contact the regional licensing office to discuss their options for on-site care. If the caller is concerned about the care being provided, we would recommend they contact the regional licensing office to file a complaint.”
- Call your healthcare provider before going into a clinic if you are experiencing mild to moderate symptoms of COVID-19. This will allow them to provide guidance, prepare ahead if you need to be seen, and minimize risk to others.
- If you have any immediate questions, please call the United Way’s Resource Line to speak with a trained specialist. It is available 24/7 for non-emergency questions about COVID-19 and referrals to local health and human services.
 - Dial 211 on your phone
 - Text “COVID19” to 211-211 to receive links to CDC information.
